Today's Information Prevents Tomorrow's Tragedies.

Known for his engaging and eye-opening presentations, Galloway provides practical, up-to-date information that helps communities stay informed, prepared, and proactive in addressing today's evolving drug landscape.

As the founder of Tall Cop Says Stop™, Galloway travels extensively across the United States conducting trainings for law enforcement, educators, healthcare professionals, and community coalitions. His presentations focus on real-world identification of drug trends, concealment methods, and the cultural influences driving substance use.

What sets Galloway apart is his Boots On The Ground™ approach personally visiting communities, documenting local trends, and bringing back timely, relevant information that audiences can immediately apply. His ability to translate complex and rapidly evolving drug issues into practical, understandable insights has made him a highly sought-after speaker nationwide.
